SUCCESSOR IS NAMED
President Cromwell Starts
General Housecleaning in Insurance Company.

Andrew C. Fields, Albany representative of the Mutual Life Insurance Company and proprietor of the famous "House of Mirth" there, has lost his position, and W. S. Sullivan, formerly of the advertising department, has been appointed his successor.

The newly elected President, Frederick Cromwell, has begun a systematic housecleaning, and the head of Fields was the first to fall.

Adrian Iselin, Jr., who has been a director since 1903, to-day resigned from the directorate. The resignation will be acted on at the meeting of the Board next Wednesday. It is stated that other members of the board do not want Mr. Iselin to resign, for they fear that many others will follow his example and deplete the board.

Another resignation in the hands of President Cromwell is that of Charles J. Smith, head of the Literary Bureau, who was last week elected president of the Press Club.

DRAGOONS IN MUTINY.
Bloody Counter Revolution
Threatened and the Strike
Crisis Acute.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 1.—6.10 P. M.—The garrison of Tsarkoe-Selo has been reinforced by the Semimovsk Regiment. Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholasovitch, Commander of the Imperial Guard, has decided to send in turn all the other guard regiments to Tsarkoe-Selo.

It develops that during the mutiny at Sebastopol the sailors of the Volynsk Fleet at Odessa and the engineers of the Southwestern Railway refused to transport troops and artillery to Sebastopol.

A state of minor siege has been declared in Transcaucasia and Saratov.

No further details are obtainable of the circumstances of the arrest at Tsarkoe-Selo of soldiers belonging to the Imperial Guard.

The Russ declares the situation is such that the Government is unable to guarantee that to-morrow the guns of Cronstadt will not bombard the capital. The Witte Government seems utterly unable to find a weapon to fight the passive revolution which it hesitates, hoping that the tide will somewhat subside and permit the realization of the reforms in an orderly way.

In the meanwhile the country is threatened with a counter revolution, with all the horrors of a Jacquerie, insurrection of peasants, and it becomes more and more apparent that there are only two modes of escape—the Government must put the whole country under a dictatorship and martial law or proclaim a ready-made constitution.

Premier Witte refuses to consent to the former, although the court officers and Imperial Guard are clamoring for it. The advocates of the latter are increasing. M. Souverain, editor of the Novoye Vremya, openly announced this in a state of mutiny since yesterday threatening death to the officers unless the pay of the men is raised. Troops have been requisitioned from Kovno.

The Lokalsenizer (Russian Poland) despatch from Warsaw (Russian Poland) saying that the fourteenth Regiment of Dragoons at Ostrovetz (Russian Poland) has mutinied.

Fleeing from Lodz.
WARSAW, Dec. 1.—The Emperor to-day issued a decree abolishing martial law in Russian Poland.

No letters are being delivered here. The authorities have informed the telegraph and postal employees that they will be dismissed unless they resume work.

The situation is so bad in the Lodz district that many foreign factory-owners have fled, and are handing over the business and machinery to the care of the authorities prior to leaving the country.

CZAR'S MEN BLAMED FOR MASSACRES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 1.—6.50 P. M.—At an immense public meeting held here to-day, at which eye-witnesses of the massacres at Odessa, Kiev and other cities recounted the revolting sights they had witnessed there, a resolution holding the local authorities principally responsible was adopted.

The latter were charged with trying to organize the unlighted masses to engage in a counter revolution. The attacks on the Jews were attributed to the fact of their being unprotected by the police, and consequently the mob considered them to be their legitimate prey.

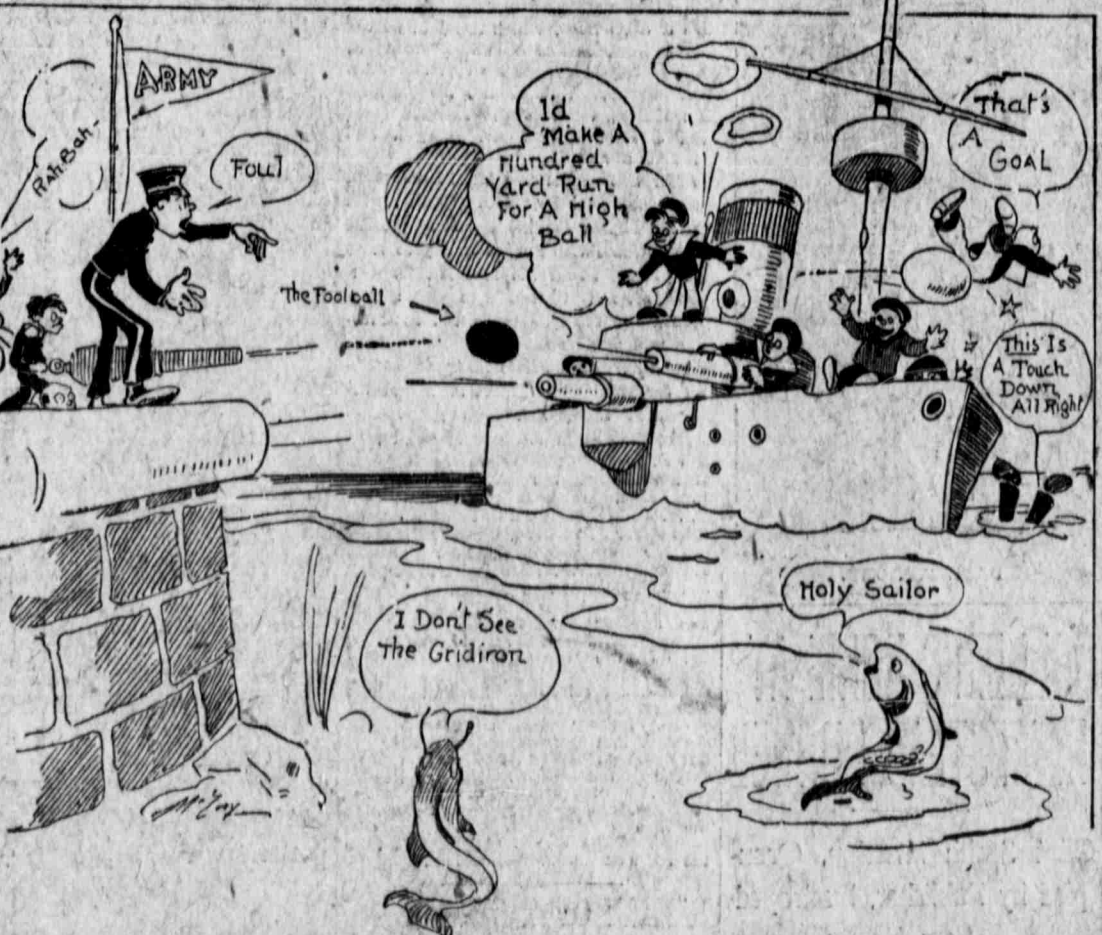

Therefore, the resolutions demanded that the Jews be placed immediately on an equality with the Russian.

FAIR GROUNDS RACE TRACK.
NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 1.—Those that care to indulge in turf scandals were given a setback to-day when they spread the story that Red Ruby, which will start in the first race at City Park, was a ringer. The fact that there are two Red Rubys entered to-day, one at Oaklawn and the other at City Park, started things going.

The City Park officials became active at once and found that the local Red Ruby is owned by Pat Civi, one of the best known turfmen in the West, and has started quite a number of times on the different tracks that race under the jurisdiction of the American Turf Association. He was fully identified by a number of horsemen, and is a chestnut gelding by Star Ruby, out of Firenze. Nothing is known here of the Red Ruby that starts at Oaklawn to-day.

There was far from being a large crowd at the Fair Grounds to-day. The weather was cloudy and the fields were made up of selling plates. There were only a few scratches in the different events. The Fair Grounds management, however, made the announcement that there will be no free gas this winter.

Powers got her away well and maintaining all the running was easily by three lengths from Gambler, who beat Flat a head. Akbar was ridden by Creamer, was caught in a jam in the run to the stretch and was thrown very hard. Creamer was picked up unconscious.

Stuck to His Story.
When three reporters, who had been standing at the front door for half an hour, told the Coroner that he must be mistaken, he said: "On my honor as a man he came out of this door five minutes ago."

The detectives and their prisoner were followed to the Criminal Courts building by Jim Vaccarillo, a half-brother of Kelley, who also lives in the Park avenue house. Vaccarillo grew indignant when reporters asked him questions as he sat in the corridor outside Cardozo's office and tried to destroy a camera which a photographer aimed at him.

Shortly before the arrest was made Capt. Hodgins denied positively that a political pull had retarded the police in their search for Kelley.

In Kelley's statement to a World reporter last night he declared that Harrington was killed by men who went to his saloon to kill him.

Assistant District-Attorney Nott, who is the acting head of the office during Mr. Joyce's absence, said that Paul Kelley gave to Mr. Cardozo the names of four men who were in the place at the time Harrington was killed. Kelley gave the name of a man who told a World reporter last night. The police have known the names of the four men ever since the night of the murder.

Red Ruby, Which Ran at New Orleans To-Day, Is Well Known in Racing Circles.

BY FRANK W. THORP.
(Special to The Evening World.)
BENNINGS RACE TRACK, Dec. 1.—There was an excellent attendance at the track to-day in spite of wintry weather and a card that was scarcely attractive. The track was a bit on the slow side, notwithstanding high and cold winds had been at work on it all night and morning.

There were no stakes to-day, the card being made up of the ordinary selling and maiden affairs. To-morrow, the last day of the meeting, the Maximum Stakes at three miles is run. This is considered a virtual walkover for Ben Crockett, winner of the Washington Cup. Banker, the contender in the Washington Cup, will not be started against Ben Crockett. The Maximum Stakes last year was won by Ben Crockett.

PAUL KELLEY PUT IN HOUSE OF DETENTION

Detectives Find Diver-keeper Living Openly in Harlem Flat.

SOME PULL BEHIND HIM.
Examination Before Assistant
District-Attorney Cardozo
Lasts All Day.

Two detectives from the Mercer street police station, guided by the interview which appeared in The World, arrested Paul Kelley this afternoon at his flat on the second floor front of the apartment-house No. 128 Park avenue, where Kelley had been living openly for over a week, while 8,000 policemen in Greater New York went through the motions of looking for him.

The men who made the arrest were McGee and Howe, plain-clothes men on "Big Bill" J. J. McGee's staff. Joe Vaccarillo, of No. 11 Second street, Kelley's cousin, gave the Mercer street station his address. Vaccarillo called up Detective McGee this morning and told him exactly where Kelley could be found.

For once Kelley turned out to be truthful when he told The World reporter who saw him last night, after all the policemen in town had failed to locate him, that he meant to let himself be arrested to-day. He remained in retirement until the influence which had shielded him and his joint after the murder of Bill Harrington last week had had time to prepare his defense. He was jaundiced and confident when he reached the Criminal Courts Building.

Kelley was at once taken to Assistant District-Attorney Cardozo's office, where he remained some time under lock and key.

More Mystery in Case.
The last chapter in the disposition of Kelley was the most amazing, as well as the most mysterious. Assistant District-Attorney Cardozo called up Coroner Goldenkrantz at the latter's home, No. 68 St. Mark's place.

"I am going to send Kelley over to you," said Cardozo.

"What's the use?" asked Goldenkrantz. "I will come right over."

"No, I want him to go over to your house," said Cardozo.

Kelley was taken to St. Mark's place by Detective Rousseau. A few minutes after they entered the house a woman who answered the bell said the Coroner was at dinner; that Kelley had been there, and she thought he had gone, she refused to carry word to the Coroner.

Half an hour later Coroner Goldenkrantz emerged from the basement smoking a fat cigar and smiling.

"Kelley has gone to the House of Detention in default of bail," said the Coroner. "How did he get out? Why he came out the front door five minutes ago."

TALLY SHEET FIGURES AND BALLOTS AGREE

Hearst Lawyers Insist on Going Over Each Vote and Long Arguments Over This Point Will Further Delay Work of Canvass.

The first of the five ballot boxes ordered opened at the request of William Randolph Hearst, so that there might be a recount, was opened this afternoon, after the opposing lawyers had argued themselves hoarse. The number of ballot in the box was found to agree with the number reported on the returns.

The box was from the Eleventh Election District of the First Assembly District. The full board of inspectors and ballot clerks were on hand to do the actual work of opening the box and counting the ballots. On the race of the returns there were 355 perfect ballots cast in this district.

Each ballot was opened out and laid face upwards on a table. The count showed that there were 355 of them.

Immediately this count was concluded the Hearst lawyers moved that if they were not allowed to inspect each ballot they would take an appeal. This will result in further delay.

The recount was begun under an agreement that if there was plain evidence that any ballot should have been protested or declared void by the election inspectors when they made the count on election night the Hearst side might appeal to the justice in whose presence the box was opened to pass upon its validity.

The Hearst lawyers accepted this as a compromise, as they had held out all day for the right to closely inspect every ballot as it was counted.

Lawyers in a Tangle.
Before the ballot boxes were opened the lawyers for Hearst and McClellan got all tied up in a series of knots through their inability to agree upon a mode of procedure. Their arguments became so confusing that Justice Amend ordered them to retire to the courthouse library and reach some compromise conclusion.

Both sides were willing that the ballot boxes be opened. Judge Parker, for Mayor McClellan, maintained that the ballots should not be examined, but merely counted without being unfolded to ascertain if the number of ballots in the boxes corresponded with the figures on the tally sheets and returns. Austen G. Fox and Mr. Yonge maintained that the ballots should be opened and scrutinized.

The Lawyers Disagree.
Mr. Fox wanted Justice Amend to make an order granting the Hearst lawyers the right to protest any ballot that did not look right to them and make a note of each protest. Judge Parker and Judge Blais vigorously protested, taking the stand that once the boxes are opened the ballots must be looked upon as a legal ballot and not liable to any interpretation other than that which was given it by the inspectors.

Justice Amend would not render a decision, although he said it appeared to him that he was exempted from passing upon the validity of a ballot after it had been put in the box.

The lawyers bickered and argued until Justice Amend told them to retire at the age of 10 years. He was in this city at the age of 10 years. She was born Nov. 1, 1894, at Connelville, Pa. She moved with her parents to Indiana when she was a child.

STUDENT KUTTROFF FOUND IN ENGLAND.

Missing Princeton Youth Said to Be Visiting Relatives Near London.

Percy Kuttroff, the Princeton student who disappeared on Sept. 27 and for information of whom a reward of $5,000 was offered by his father, is with relatives in a suburb of London. This news reached New York today in a cablegram to Cordozo & Nathan, Mr. Kuttroff's lawyers.

The cablegram read: "Percy is here and well."

Mr. Kuttroff is in Chicago. He was called up on the long-distance telephone by Mr. Cordozo and said that he had wealthy relatives just outside London, and that Percy was undoubtedly with them. It had not occurred to him before that the boy had left the United States.

Mr. Kuttroff will start for New York this evening. Upon his arrival he will confer with other members of his family as to the advisability of going to Europe after his son.

Percy Kuttroff is seventeen years old. He started ostensibly for his studies on the day of his disappearance. A short time after Mr. Kuttroff discovered that the boy had not reached Princeton.

A private detective agency was engaged and a systematic search was inaugurated. Not the slightest trace of the boy could be found. It is supposed that he became seized with a sudden desire to travel and finally made up his mind to go to England.

BOY HURLED TO HIS DEATH BY FAST CAR.

Ran Directly in Front and Is Hurled Twenty Feet, Landing on His Head.

Running in front of a swiftly moving trolley car at One Hundred and Seventy-third street and Third avenue this afternoon, Benjamin Overbanke, thirteen years old, of No. 684 East One Hundred and Seventy-third street, was struck by the tender, hurled twenty feet and killed.

His head struck the pavement and his skull was fractured.

The boy ran from behind a north-bound car directly in the path of a south-bound one. The motorman, James Brady, of No. 125 East One Hundred and Seventy-sixth street, had no time to do anything before his car struck the boy. He was arrested.
